

Proclamation

by

Andy Beshear
Governor

of the

Commonwealth of Kentucky

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

WHEREAS, According to the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, there were approximately 2,500 beekeepers and 50 local beekeeping associations in the Commonwealth of Kentucky in 2020; and

WHEREAS, There are nearly 13,000 bee colonies throughout the state that produce nearly 350,000 pounds of honey, generating more than $800,000 for our local economy; and

WHEREAS, Popular varieties of honey in Kentucky come from clover, black locust, wildflower, holly, tulip poplar, and other plant sources; and

WHEREAS, There are well over 300 varieties of honey in the United States, as the color and flavor of honey depends on the nectar source; and

WHEREAS, The benefits of honey are numerous, and honey can be used as an ingredient in food, medicine, hygiene products, and other products; and

WHEREAS, Clarkson, Kentucky, is home to one of the largest manufacturers of beekeeping supplies in the nation; and

WHEREAS, The month of September features two long-running bee-themed festivals in the state, the Breathitt County Honey Festival and the Clarkson Honeyfest, which has been named the "Official State Honey Festival of Kentucky"; and

WHEREAS, Kentucky Honey Month is an opportunity to acknowledge the work of those harvesting honey and the value of honey to Kentucky;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ANDY BESHEAR, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, do hereby proclaim September 2025, as in Kentucky.

DONE AT THE CAPITOL, in the City of Frankfort the 14th day of August, in the year of Our Lord Two Thousand Twenty-Five and in the 234th year of the Commonwealth.
